6425 percent chance of getting married by signing up for your 'service'?? The odds of getting married to someone you met in real life are way better than that!!!.. Third, the lies are completely FALSE - these fairy tales my mom told me from when I was a kid.

Some of the fairy tales: 'If you want to get a woman, you have to make good money, so work hard' [watch Jerry Springer some time to see women love the guys who have no job, no money, no car, no ambition, no place of his own but a room at his mom's, a drug habit, a prison record, and a violent temper] 'A woman will respect you and desire you, if you are a good Christian man' [.. Read the following paragraph, paying careful attention, then read my expert mathematical analysis below: Okay, kids, ring the bell; school's in.. Second, I can get dates and flirtations and phone numbers, but they don't seem interested after the initial attraction.

Oct 30, 2012 Forums Mobile App Eharmony experiences? Aka the online dating discussion thread.. 016425 So, unless I did my math wrong, or unless I'm misreading the statistical data, your chance of getting married through eHarmony is an abysmal.. 1 6425 percent Wow, so you're going to charge me $49 95 monthly for a guaranteed 1.. Let's do some more math 197,100 [members married] ÷ 12,000,000 [total registered members] 0.. That's a lot Ah, but wait a minute The statistic also stated that eHarmony has 12 million registered users. Java Update For Mac El Capitan
